

Global Directory of PEPAS Knowledge Institutions and Initiatives

The Global Directory of PEPAS Knowledge Institutions and Initiatives aims to connect expertise working in knowledge mobilization, research, data, and information sharing in the field of Physical Education, Physical Activity, and Sport (PEPAS).

Knowledge Institutions and Initiatives (KII) exist in diverse formats including research centres, university departments, research groups, think tanks, projects, networks, and NGOs among others. KIIs play an important role in providing knowledge, generating questions, and analyses that are valuable to research, policy, and practice. Centralising information will contribute to enhancing access and connection among institutions and stakeholders.

The Directory is targeted at users looking for research services, networks to join, conference speakers, advisers and consultants, as well as research outputs on specific topics. It will also be valuable in identifying expertise in specified geographic regions. Staff of policy making institutions, academic actors, researchers, safe sport activists, and sport practitioner organizations may find this Directory valuable.

This first edition of the directory focuses on KIIs that work on themes of violence, gender based violence, violence against women and girls, safeguarding and protection and related topics within the PEPAS context.

Contribute to the Directory

GO invites submissions on KIIs that are working within the context of PE, PA, and Sport on themes that broadly or specifically relate to: Gender Based Violence, Violence against Women and Girls, Interpersonal Violence, Non-Accidental Violence, Safeguarding.
